Gen. Lyon Statue Unveiled, Sponsor Raps Its Critics

The Rev. Frank Beardsley Challenges Them to Raise Money to Erect a Better Monument.

Another voice was added to the lament for the city's lack of a Municipal Art Commission yesterday when the statue of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon was unveiled on Camp Jackson Plaza, Grand and Pine boulevards.

The Rev. Frank G. Beardsley, pastor of Fountain Park Congregational Church and president of the Camp Jackson Union Soldiers' Monument Association, in his address added his regrets to those of critics of the monument. He challenged them, however, to raise the funds to erect a better monument.

The sculptor, Edward Siskert, 2332 South Grand boulevard, who has received $12,000 of the $15,000 commission, was there dapper and smiling as he bowed to applause.

Among the 150 persons who shivered on the snow before the monument were a few aged men in blue, their fading eyes fixed anxiously upon it, quick to brighten at the pastor's raps at its critics.

Capt. Charles Koeh, 86-year-old survivor of Gen. Lyon's forces that captured Camp Jackson, arrived from his home in Sedalia only a moment too late for the ceremony. Gazing at the slender bronze, he recalled his old leader as short and stocky with bushy hair and the look of middle age.

"I remember the night he mustered us in," he said slowly, having made it clear that he would not set himself up as a critic of the monument. "As we marched up Fifth street, he was looking at the camp in a grove between Morgan and Franklin, we were bombarded with bricks."

"The Camp Jackson Union Soldiers' Monument Association has no apologies to offer at this time for the monument or its sculptor," said the Rev. Dr. Beardsley, who announced that formal dedication would take place on Camp Jackson day, May 10.

"We have had just one purpose in view: to commemorate the heroic deed of heroic men. We knew that there was opposition to the erection of any sort of memorial in honor of the taking of Camp Jackson. In view of the opposition, whatever the design of the monument, it was to be expected that there would be criticism."

"Had the very men who have criticized the monument so violently and so mercilessly, had they men submitted a design, or had they approved a design for a monument, if the same had been accepted, in all probability it would have been criticized with as much sarcasm and as much venom as this monument has been criticized."

$8000 BLAZE IN COUNTY, CITY FIREMEN CALLED OUT

Company Goes to Heege Avenue, South of Gravois Road, After Fire of $1000.

The two-story frame residence of Mrs. Agnes Hukenbeck, 4233 Heege avenue, south of Gravois road, in St. Louis County, was destroyed by fire shortly after noon today. For a time several other houses in the block were threatened. Mrs. Hukenbeck's loss was estimated at $7000, while the house of a neighbor, Emil Kluba, was damaged about $1000.

A St. Louis fire company from Kingshighway and Eleanor avenue went to the blaze after H. C. Briggs, a garage owner, drove to the engine house and deposited $100 to cover its expenses. Water was pumped from a quarry pond to save Kluba's house and extinguish sparks as they fell on other residences.

Mrs. Hukenbeck was working in St. Louis at the time and her three children were playing outside. An overheated furnace was believed to have caused the fire.

FORMER NEWSPAPER REPORTER KILLS HIMSELF AT ALTON

Inquest Will Be Held in Death of Wilson Curran; Funeral Tomorrow.

An inquest will be held today at Alton in the death of Wilson Curran, 29 years old, former newspaper reporter, who ended his life Saturday by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun. The trigger of which he released with a stick. Relatives have been unable to attribute a motive for the act.

Curran had been employed until two years ago on Springfield newspaper and also had worked for the City News Bureau at Chicago. He was a grandson of Gen. I. B. Curran. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today.

FATAL QUANTITY OF POISON FOUND IN PASTOR'S BODY

Chemist's Report Indicates the Rev. Dr. Whiteside Took Overdose of Sleeping Potion.

A chemical examination has been completed in the case of the Rev. Dr. Russell B. Whiteside, former pastor of Euclid Baptist Church, who died at Missouri Baptist Hospital Thursday night, after being taken from a Washington boulevard apartment. Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, who made the examination, said today that he found a fatal quantity to be fatal. Barbitol, used in sleeping compounds, is more commonly known under the trade name of veronal. Dr. Whiteside had been taking such a compound and is thought to have taken an overdose.

The physician's findings will be reported to the coroner, who held the inquest open. Dr. Whiteside, who retired from the Euclid Church pastorate last June, lived recently in Louisiana, Mo., but because of poor health was not in ministerial work.

MAN KILLED IN FIGHT ON FLOOR OF DANCE HALL

E. P. McNeil, 25, Suffered Fractured Skull in Encounter in Grand and Olive Basement.

A series of fights at the Midtown Dancing Academy, in the basement of Hotel Bock, Grand boulevard and Olive street, early yesterday, resulted in the death of one of the guests, Ernest Paul McNeil, 25-year-old sheet metal worker.

A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown following testimony by several of the 23 dancers and employees who had been summoned in the inquest. McNeil's skull was fractured.

A brief description of the fight was given by Emily Taylor, 19-year-old dancing instructor: "I danced with McNeil. He wasn't intoxicated."

Victim Died After Fight.

"Later there was a fight in the men's washroom. Then the men came out and there was a fight on the dance floor. A crowd gathered around I couldn't see much, but when the crowd moved away McNeil was lying on the floor. He was knocked down in the second fight."

McNeil was being led to the door when he collapsed and died. Police were told he had struck his head against a concrete step.

"Six or seven men were making wisecracks in the washroom," testified a customer, John E. Moore Jr., "when a man came in and said we had better be quiet. I made a remark he resented and he hit me. I fell to the floor and another boy took up the fight for me. It developed into a general fight with everybody swinging and spread out to the dance floor."

McNeil attempted one blow but missed, according to other witnesses, who said they did not see who struck McNeil.

Albert Wichmann and John Maher, proprietors, testified they ejected several of the disturbers and then found McNeil lying on the floor.

McNeil was married and resided at 4115 Delmar boulevard.

FRANK T. BYRNE, RAILROAD AGENT, DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Represented Pere Marquette Lines in St. Louis 25 Years; Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

Frank T. Byrne, southwestern agent of the Pere Marquette Railway Co. here for 25 years, died last night of pneumonia at his home, 4501 Maryland avenue. He was 70 years old.

Born in Albany, N. Y., Mr. Byrne came to St. Louis in 1881. He was successively with the Chicago & Alton, Grand Trunk and Pere Marquette railroads. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Byrne, a daughter, Mrs. Thomas O'Reilly, and a son, J. Wilson Byrne.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the St. Louis Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue. Burial will take place in Calvary cemetery.

GRAZED MAN KILLS TWO AND IS SLAIN IN TEXAS

Farmer Starts Firing in Auto Agency; Dealer and Constable Victims.

By the Associated Press. CAMERON, Tex., Dec. 21.—Three men were killed in a 20-minute gun fight here today. The dead are Hubert Hefley, automobile dealer; Charles Sena, constable; and Alton Huebner, farmer.

Huebner, thought to have become suddenly insane, appeared at the door of the Ford Automobile Agency with an automatic rifle in his hand and started shooting at everyone in sight. Hefley was killed before the arrival of Constable Sena. Huebner opened fire upon Sena as he ran up, killing him instantly. The crashed man was finally shot down by Eugene Smith.

After Hefley and Sena had been killed, Sheriff Blaylock appeared. Huebner fired at him three times, one bullet grazing the sheriff's knee. Huebner then backed out the front door, and turning, fired three shots at employees of the Texas Power Co., just across the street. He continued to shoot at everyone in sight until Smith killed him.

Huebner emptied his .33-05 rifle three times before he was killed. Two years ago, Huebner had a personal difficulty with an automobile salesman, in which he was struck over the head with a heavy stick, causing a fracture of the skull and resulting in a law suit.

Constable Sena was the father of Lee Sena, University of Texas athlete.

POLICE CHIEF CALLS FOR AID FOR 700 DESTITUTE FAMILIES

are able to supply relief, and have done so to date.

"The Police Department has brought many cases to our attention before the emergency fund was organized in the month of December. More than 300 were reported to us by the Police Department. We look carefully into every case reported."

"There is another factor in cold weather, and that is the lack of means of support in the cold weather, and have to be looked after."

"Can Care for Every Family."

Asked about the ability of the Provident Association to supply immediate relief, in the case of starving persons, or persons suffering from cold, Stager said: "We make it a point to investigate cases promptly. In the case of a report made in the afternoon, we are prepared to give relief by the next morning at the latest, and in the case of a report made in the morning, by that evening at the latest. I should say that the Provident Association being organized as it is—a very destitute family in the city will be taken care of. The case, however, must be brought to our attention before we can investigate it."

Director Keise of the Community Fund, said of the present emergency among the city's needy: "The Provident Association is working night and day to keep up with the work of adding the destitute. The cold wave has brought an unusual pressure on our agencies for poor relief which they are standing, however, very well. Many homeless drifters have come into the city in the past week. I believe we ought to have a special sinking fund for sudden emergencies that run the demands for relief high above the normal. We are doing our best under the circumstances and General Manager Stager of the Provident Association reports that he is able to meet the emergency."

Chief Clerk commented on the crowded condition at the Municipal Lodging House, Fourteenth and Pine streets, where 166 homeless men found shelter last night. Every night for a week more than 300 men have been there, almost taxing its capacity.

FRED BURKE ACCUSED OF 7 CHICAGO KILLINGS

Coroner's Jury Names Him After Evidence of Bullet Markings.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Fred Burke, fugitive gunman, was named by a coroner's jury today as one of the slayers of the seven Moran gangsters shot down in a North Clark street garage last Valentine's day.

The coroner's jury had been reconvened today in the 16 months investigation of the killing and returned its verdict after Maj. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert, had testified that markings found on bullets taken from the bodies of the seven victims of the gang killing were identical with markings on bullets fired from the submachine guns found in the St. Joseph, Mich., home of Burke.

While saying the killers of the gangsters were not known, the jury recommended that Burke be apprehended and held to the grand jury for murder "until freed by due process of law."

Burke was named as the slayer of two of the seven, James Clark and Dr. Edmund Schwimmer.

The ballistics expert said he fired 35 bullets from the weapons brought here from the St. Joseph bungalow after Burke had shot to death a traffic policeman in an argument a week ago.

He pronounced the peculiar markings on the lead noses of the bullets and the ejector block markings on the shells identical.

Burke was listed last spring as one of 17 wanted for questioning in connection with the case and was reported to have been identified by witnesses as one of the executioners seen entering the garage just before the slaying.

Coroner Bundesen himself made tentative identification of the machine guns and bullets last week and submitted the case to Goddard, now a member of the faculty of Northwestern University's crime detection school.

The coroner's jury as reconvened today was composed of Bert A. Massey, vice president of the Chicago-Palm Beach Post Co., former Cyrus McCormick Jr., Col. A. A. Sprague, Walter L. Meyer, John V. McCormick and Maj. Felix J. Streichmann, former Belgian consul.

250 LIVES LOST IN SINKING OF CHINESE SHIP IN STORM

Virtually All Aboard the Steamer Lee Cheong, All Chinese, Perished; Two Seamen Picked Up.

By the Associated Press. HONGKONG, China, Dec. 23.—The Chinese steamer Lee Cheong with Chinese officers and crew and 250 Chinese passengers, including many women and children, sank late Saturday night with virtually all on board.

The vessel was caught in a violent storm shortly after leaving Swatow Saturday afternoon for Hongkong and went down at midnight, swamped by huge waves.

Two seamen clinging to the wreckage were picked up yesterday and brought here.

POSES AS CLERGYMAN TO PASS BAD CHECKS

Alex Patterson, Arrested on Bride's Complaint, Admits Nation-Wide Swindle.

Alex Patterson, alias J. P. Sherry, arrested by police yesterday on a charge of passing two worthless checks here, admitted to Chief of Police Gerk today that he has passed worthless checks "all over the country," while posing as the Rev. James W. Shear, Baptist minister, and that he has served five prison sentences as a result of his activities.

Patterson, well groomed and of pleasing manner, was arrested at the Robert E. Lee Hotel on complaint of his bride of a month, the former Miss Emma Kober, 4123 Ellsworth avenue. Patterson, 35, is a native of St. Louis.

While saying the killers of the gangsters were not known, the jury recommended that Burke be apprehended and held to the grand jury for murder "until freed by due process of law."

Burke was named as the slayer of two of the seven, James Clark and Dr. Edmund Schwimmer.

'LUCKY' BALDWIN'S DAUGHTER TO SELL $20,000,000 ESTATE

Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin Says She Will Devote Fortune to Music and Travel.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, today announced her property holdings in Southern California, valued at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, soon are to be offered for sale in the open market and that she will devote the future to music and travel.

Virtually all preliminary details for the sale have been completed, Mrs. Baldwin said, and most of the property is expected to be disposed of by next June 1. On that date Mrs. Baldwin will leave Southern California and take up her residence at her Lake Tahoe estate in the northern part of the State.

Included in the properties to be sold is the Arcadia Ranch near Los Angeles where Mrs. Baldwin's father made his home and raised and trained many of the fine horses for which he was famed. Other properties to be sold are the Baldwin Hills oil field near Culver City, the ranch properties at La Cienega and the Baldwin home place near Arcadia.

TRAIN SERVICE BETTER FOLLOWING BLIZZARD

Tenth of an Inch of Snow
Last Night—Ice Gorges Lower River.

Train service in and out of St. Louis, which has been impaired for several days because of the blizzard last Wednesday and the heavy holiday traffic, was somewhat improved today. In contrast with the last few days, when virtually all trains arrived late and many, held for connections, departed late, several reached Union Station on time today and outbound trains left punctually.

The latest train today was marked less than three hours behind time, compared with five hours and a half on Saturday. There was much congestion in train movement yesterday. Buses are being used to transfer passengers from inbound Pennsylvania and Illinois Central trains from Washington Avenue Station to Union Station, thus avoiding delays for departing trains on which these passengers are routed, since inbound trains frequently are detained in the yards. Holiday traffic is said by railroad men to be unusually heavy this year.

One-tenth of an inch of snow fell last night on top of the 5.7 inches that fell last week. The temperature here dropped to freezing point, 32 degrees, last Tuesday midnight, shortly after the blizzard began, and continued falling, and the highest it has been since then was 34 degrees on Saturday. Yesterday's warmest was 22 degrees. A minimum of 20 is forecast for tonight and the sky was expected to clear today, while the prediction for tomorrow is warmer. The minimum temperature in the present cold snap was 6 degrees above zero on Friday morning.

Although the sky was free of clouds yesterday, much of St. Louis was wrapped in a heavy smoke pall in the morning—the worst smoke this season. The wind was not strong enough to blow it away.

The official Mississippi River gauge here read 3.4 of a foot below zero this morning, a fall of 8 of a foot since yesterday. There is floating ice in the channel. The low water is due to ice gorges upstream. The river was blocked by an ice gorge at the Chicago & Alton Railroad bridge at Louisiana, Mo., today for the first time this winter.

THREE HELD FOR 'FRAMED' ACCIDENTS AT CHICAGO

Attorney and Physician Sought as Accomplices in New Taxi
"Racket."

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—A series of "framed" taxicab accidents was exposed here Saturday night as the latest "racket" for get-rich-quick promoters, three of whom were arrested. An attorney and a physician are sought as accomplices. A former convict who recently hired out to a taxicab company drove the "victims" to the "accidents," the physician cared for their hospital treatments and the attorney instigated action for damages, police reports said.

One accident, in which the cab crashed into an elevated structure, caused investigators for the cab company to uncover clues which led to the arrest last night of John Sullivan, paroled convict and the cab driver; Dorothy Harrington Van Hise Sweet, an alleged big-mist, and Ray Van Hise, one of the woman's husbands. The husband was released after questioning, but the other husband is sought. Three men "victims" of the accident also are wanted.

WHITE ROSE
ETHYL

White Rose Ethyl—all the easy starting, the superior performance, the quicker acceleration, the clean burning, the costs-less-per-mile economy of White Rose Gasoline with the added advantages of Ethyl—that's great news for every owner of a high compression motor.

Thousands of Ethyl users have wished for an Ethyl of White Rose quality. They have wanted this better gasoline, with its many superiorities and its unfailing uniformity. They knew and preferred White Rose, but insisted on Ethyl.

Other thousands, long users of White Rose and unwilling to accept a lesser gasoline, wished for the advantages of Ethyl for their new high compression cars.

Both classes will hail this new White Rose Ethyl; and many more thousands who have longed for a better fuel will find motor-ing satisfaction in White Rose Ethyl.

Best of all, White Rose Ethyl costs you no more than other Ethyl gasolines—you can have all the advantages of White Rose gasoline at no extra cost.

Stop in at any station displaying the famous Boy and Slate Sign and fill your tank with White Rose Ethyl. You'll notice new delightful performance from this powerful combination of Ethyl and White Rose Gasoline.

RUSSIA AND CHINA SIGN TREATY TO END RAILWAY DISPUTE

diately released without division into categories, including Soviet citizens arrested during the search of the Harbin Consulate on May 21, 1929. The Soviet Government will also immediately release all Chinese citizens without exception arrested in connection with the conflict and interned Chinese soldiers and officers.

"All employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway, citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, who were discharged or who resigned since July 18, 1929, shall be given the right and opportunity immediately to return to the positions they held prior to their discharge and to receive any money due them from the railway. Those who fail to exercise this right must be paid immediately full wages, pensions, dues, etc., owed them. Vacancies may be filled only in the proper order by the lawful board of management and administration and all former Russian citizens or non-citizens of the Soviet Republics, employed by the railway during the dispute, must be summarily and immediately discharged.

"The Chinese authorities shall immediately disarm Russian White Guard detachments and deport from the three Eastern provinces (which make up Manchuria) their organizations and leaders.

Resumption of Relations.
"Leaving open the question of resumption of full diplomatic and consular relations between the Soviet Union and China until the Soviet-Chinese conference, both parties consider possible and necessary the immediate restoration of Soviet Consulate in the three eastern provinces and of Chinese consulates in their respective seats in the Soviet Far East.

"In view of the fact that the Soviet Union Government declared on May 21, 1929, that 'since Chinese authorities have proved their clear unwillingness and inability to reckon with the generally accepted principles of international law and custom it does not henceforth regard itself bound by these principles in relation to Chinese representation at Moscow and Chinese consulates in Soviet territory and that this representation and these consulates shall no longer enjoy the extra-territoriality to which international law entitles them' and that both parties intend to restore consular relations between them on the basis of conforming to the principles of international law and custom, the Mukden Government declares that it undertakes to assure the Soviet consulates in the three Eastern provinces full inviolability and privileges to which international law and custom entitles them and will, of course, refrain from any actions violating this inviolability and these privileges.

Soviet's Promise.

"On its part, the Soviet Government will discontinue the special regime established by it between May 21, 1929 and the rupture of relations for Chinese consulates and grants these consulates, which are to be restored by virtue of the first clause of this protocol, on Soviet territory in the Far East all privileges and full inviolability to which international law and custom entitle them.

"With the restoration of the consulates, opportunity shall immediately be given for resumption of normal activity by all Soviet business organizations existing before the conflict within the three Eastern provinces. Similar opportunity shall be offered to Chinese commercial enterprises which existed in the Soviet Union whose operations were discontinued in connection with the conflict regarding the Chinese Eastern Railway. The question of commercial relations between the two countries as a whole shall be settled by the Soviet-Chinese conference.

"The question of real guarantees for the observance of the agreements and the interests of both sides shall be solved at the forthcoming conference.

"A Soviet-Chinese conference to regulate all outstanding questions shall be held in Moscow Jan. 25, 1930.

"The peaceful situation on the frontiers of China and the Soviet Union shall be restored immediately. This shall be subsequent to withdrawal of troops by both sides. This protocol enters into force from the moment of its signature."

New Mongol Republic Reported Projected in Manchuria.

TOKIO, Dec. 22.—A projected new Mongol Republic under Russian encouragement in the district called Barga, Kulumor or Klonball was reported today in official Japanese dispatches from Harbin and Mukden.

Chinese returning to Harbin on the international train in which they attempted to reach North western Manchuria to learn the fate of their nationals brought a few details of the project. The Consulate was prevented from venturing past Mientuho by Chinese military.

The territory of Barga, roughly the western tongue of Heilung Kiang, including the city of Kharlar, which the Mongols hope to make their capital, and the takes Kulumor and Borno, has been disturbed frequently in recent years by the ambitious "young Mongol" party, which has attempted to achieve independence from China. Soviet Russian was believed to encourage the party.

Negro, Throat Slashed, Dies.

Robbie Robinson, 21-year-old Negro, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, early today shortly after he was found with his throat slashed on a street corner in Venice. Before he died, Robinson gave hospital attaches the name of a man he said shot him.

PHONE CALL TO LINER FROM PLANE IN AIR

Connection Made With Leviathan 500 Miles From the Coast.

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, Dec. 23. — High over Manhattan in a hundred-mile-an-hour flying telephone booth reporters talked to the liner Leviathan 500 miles at sea yesterday. Two reporters and three engineers of the Bell Telephone laboratories coaxed 3000 feet over the city in a tri-motored plane, naked for and got the Leviathan as if they were calling for a number just around the corner. They passed the time of day and heard the gossip of the ship from Commande
 Harry Cunningham and passengers aboard the vessel. This new step in communication was effected by a radio-land wire-radio hookup.
 Cunningham told the Associated Press reporter that it was a clear day and a calm sea, that he hoped to be at his dock in the Hudson river Monday morning at 9 o'clock.
 After a short exchange of pleasanties others aboard the plane talked with the ship. The conversations lasted half an hour.
 With the plane at 1500 feet the trailing antenna was dropped and
 P. E. Bernard, Bell radio engineer, got in touch with the experimental radio station at Whippany, N. J., which then connected him by land
 wire to the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. headquarters in New York City. There with the Bell system's broadcasting station at Dal Beach, N. J., and thence by radio to the Leviathan.
 The voices from the ship went by radio to the receiving station at Forked River, N. J., back to land wires through New York City to the Whippany station from where they were broadcast to the plane.
 There was hardly any static, the voices coming through almost as distinctly as over an ordinary telephone circuit.

SEEKS SUPPORT OF HAWES BILL TO SPEED UP FOREIGN GOODS

A campaign in support of a bill introduced in Congress by Senator Hawes of Missouri, authorizing the Treasury Department to readjust its methods of handling merchandise consigned to inland cities at Atlantic seaboard ports, thereby speeding up delivery, has been started by the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.
 A survey has disclosed that numerous large importers route such shipments through Montreal because port charges are less and there is a delay in time due to the complicated method of handling shipments. Some bring in no more than 15 per cent of their goods through American Atlantic ports, the survey showed.
 Consequently, it is said, the United States Merchant Marine loses a large amount of business and large amounts are paid out in interest by American importers because of delay in shipment through American ports. The bureau has written other Chambers of Commerce asking that they support the Hawes measure.

PLANS FOR PILGRIMAGE OF GOLD STAR MOTHERS

U. S. to Pay Even the Tips for Them and War Widows on European Trip.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Tentative plans for taking 6738 gold star mothers and war widows as guests of the United States Government on pilgrimages to European cemeteries were announced today by Major-General R. Frank Chestnut, Quartermaster-General of the Army.

The pilgrimages, including transportation from all parts of the country to New York, cabin-class accommodations at sea, and two weeks in Europe with even the expense of tips provided for, were authorized by Congress last March. An investigation recently conducted by the War Department showed that while 11,449 mothers and widows were entitled to the trip, only 6738 desired to make the pilgrimage and that the great majority wished to go in 1930.

Gen. Chestnut said separate groups would be organized for trips to 18 cemeteries containing American war dead in England, Belgium and France.

"So far as practicable," he continued, "invitations will be extended to the mothers and widows from each state who are entitled to make the pilgrimage to the same cemetery, so that they may make the trip together."

"All groups will be assembled in New York City, where the normal duration of stay before sailing will be from 24 to 48 hours, depending upon the distance which must be traveled to reach New York."

"According to present plans, each mother or widow accepting the invitation will be provided, before her departure from home, with a railroad or other common carrier ticket, for her berth accommodations if length of journey so justify, or seat in Pullman chair or parlor car, and funds to cover per diem allowance for food and all other expenses other than transportation tickets furnished; also an identification badge."

Gen. Chestnut said similar arrangements would be made on the return trip from New York.

NEW COMET AT LIMIT OF NAKED EYE VISIBILITY

It Is Photographed at Harvard and Johns Hopkins Near Star Vega.

By Science Service.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 22.—Memories of Halley's comet in 1910 and the bright one that preceded it in the same year may be revived during the next few weeks if Wilk's comet, discovered on Friday by a Polish astronomer, continues to become brighter.

When discovered it was of the seventh magnitude. Saturday night it was estimated to be of the sixth magnitude just at the limit of naked eye visibility. Photographs made Saturday and yesterday morning at the Harvard observatory showed an embryonic tail that apparently is just developing.

As a comet approaches the sun it increases in activity and brilliance, usually growing a tail. Wilk's comet is now a short distance south of Vega, the bright star that is low in the northwest just after sunset, or in the northeast just before sunrise. The comet is moving southeast at the speed of 2.7 degrees a day, which is high, and indicates that it is close to the sun.

The comet was seen Saturday night from the Johns Hopkins University observatory at Baltimore by Dr. R. L. Waterfield, who estimated its brilliance as the sixth magnitude.

WILBUR W. MARSH STRICKEN FATALITY AT WHEEL OF AUTO

He Was Democratic National Committeeman for Iowa During Wilson Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WATERLOO, Ia., Dec. 22.—Wilbur W. Marsh, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa during the campaigns of Woodrow Wilson, died at his home here last night. Death was caused by a paralytic stroke.

He was found unconscious at the wheel of his automobile on a highway near Hudson yesterday morning. Physicians said Mr. Marsh apparently had been unconscious in the car all night. Before losing consciousness he had stopped the car and shut off the motor.

Mr. Marsh was prominently mentioned for Secretary of Agriculture during the second Wilson administration. He recently retired from the presidency of the Associated Manufacturers' Co., a farm implement concern. For a time he was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. He is survived by the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Bennett Clark of St. Louis, wife of the son of the late Champ Clark.

NEW OREGON GOVERNOR SWORN

A. W. Norblad Succeeds L. L. Patterson Who Died Suddenly.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 22.—A. W. Norblad, president of the State Senate stood beside the chair of his invalid mother, Mrs. Beale Norblad, here yesterday and took the oath of office as Governor of Oregon to fill the unexpired term of Gov. L. L. Patterson, who died suddenly last night.

Gov. Norblad, State Senator, Notary Public and a friend of the new Governor read the oath in the presence of Mrs. Norblad, D. N. Reger, brother-in-law at whose home the ceremony took place. Gov. Norblad's son and daughter, and newspapermen.

INTERNATIONAL CHRISTMAS RADIO PROGRAM PLANNED

Music From England, Holland and Germany Will Be Broadcast Over National Chain.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Radio engineers in widely separated sections of the world are bending every effort to insure the success of the proposed Christmas day re-broadcasting to America of programs originating in England, Holland and Germany.

The programs, to be distributed by the National Broadcasting Co., as its Christmas gift to listeners, are to be brought across the Atlantic by short waves to the receiving stations at Riverhead, N. Y., whence they will be fed by wire into the broadcasting network. Both here and abroad engineers are at work on the necessary technical details, including the study of atmospheric prospects.

It is planned to begin the broadcasts at 11 a. m. St. Louis time, the first to come from Eindhoven, Holland. At 11:45 a. m. Berlin is to be cut in, with the closing feature from England starting at 1 p. m.

In return, American greetings are to be sent to Europe by the National Broadcasting Co. on Christmas and thereafter via short wave stations at Schenectady and Pittsburgh. The first is planned for 10 o'clock, Central time, Christmas morning, and is intended for England and Holland. The following day, at 10:45 p. m., another program is to be directed to Germany. On both days the programs for Europe also will be put on American networks.

New York will send its Christmas greetings throughout America and to all the world Tuesday night at a song-fest in Madison Square Park.

The international Christmas carol sing arranged under the general direction of the Advertising Club of New York, with a chorus of nearly 1500 trained voices, will get under way at 6:30 p. m. Christmas eve. A radio broadcast of the program will go out over the National Broadcasting Co. network and will be relayed on the short wave transmitter of WOXY, making the program available to all of America, Europe and Australia.

The carol choir, composed of members of choirs from churches of every sect and denomination in New York City will be augmented by vocal groups from 400 civic societies, fire and police department bands, the Police Glee Club, and other musical groups. The sing will be led by Albert Stoenes, conductor of the New York Oratorio Society.

Maria Kurenko, Russian coloratura soprano, will be heard in person during the program of the sing.

Mayor Walker will open the sing. In addition to the Mayor, individual sponsors of the international Christmas carol sing include Bruce Barton, the Rev. S. Parkes, Cadman, Barron G. Collier, the Rev. Frances P. Duffy, Will H. Hays, G. F. McClelland, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, the Rev. Christian F. Reimer, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Minot Simmons, Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, Alfred E. Smith and Robert F. Wagner.

CHRISTMAS TIME CHURCH SERVICES, ENTERTAINMENTS

25,000 Expected to Attend
Missouri Pacific's Party
for Employees Tonight at Arena.

Christmas was the topic of sermons in most churches yesterday and announcements were made of special services to be held during the holiday period. Christmas parties for children are to be held by many churches, schools, hospitals and business organizations.

Probably the largest in St. Louis will be given tonight at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue, for employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and their families. About 25,000
are expected to attend.

The huge auditorium has been decorated in holiday colors and a 40-foot Christmas tree placed in the center. Santa Claus will make his appearance, driving a sleigh pulled by four reindeer. About 10,000 gift packages have been secured for distribution to Children.

Entertainment will be furnished by musical organizations from the railroad's shops at Sedalia and Little Rock, Ark., the Diamond
Jubilee Quartet, and the Missouri
Pacific chorus, which will sing Christmas carols. Officers of the railroad, including L. W. Baldwin, president, will attend.

Party at School for Deaf.
The annual Christmas entertainment of Gallaudet School for the Deaf will be presented tonight in the school's auditorium, 1600 South
Grand boulevard.

Children of the beginners', primary and intermediate departments will be entertained at a Christmas party this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and West-minister place.

The Rev. Dr. Rufus D. S. Putney, superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, will conduct a carol service there tomorrow night. There will be a procession by nurses and the choir and patients able to leave their beds will be taken to the service in wheel chairs. Gifts are to be distributed to children who are nonpaying patients at the hospital.

Midnight Mass Christmas Eve.
Midnight mass will be celebrated on Christmas eve at many Catholic churches in the city and county.

Each of the families receiving aid from the St. Vincent de Paul Society will be visited on Christmas eve and will receive gifts of money or food.

Fifty children of Jewish Orphanage Home will be guests of Mrs.
G. Edgar Jacobs, 714 Limit avenue,
at the Fox Theater Thursday. Gifts provided by students of Soldan High School are to be distributed to the orphans tomorrow morning and in the afternoon they will be guests of the Ambassador Theater.
A midnight service will be conducted at Holy Communion Church, 2801 Washington boulevard, on Christmas eve by the Rev. W. S.
Hohenschild. The service will be preceded by an organ recital and choral singing at 11:15 o'clock.

A union service at Delmar Baptist Church, 2801 Washington boulevard, on Christmas morning at 10:30 o'clock at Delmar Baptist Church, Atkinson and Washington boulevards. The sermon will be by the Rev. Dr. J.
E. Crowther, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church. Other clergymen participating will be the Rev. R. K. Kelly, president of the Ministerial Alliance, the Rev.
George A. Campbell, the Rev. Dr.
Calvin Dobson and the Rev. Ryland Knight.

Children of St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevards, will gather around a large Christmas tree to be erected tomorrow night outside of the church to join in singing carols.

The usual New Year's service
for men only will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Webster Groves Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. David Skilling.

Children of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Lindell boulevard and Spring avenue, had their Christmas manger service yesterday, when they deposited gifts of food in a manger erected in the chancel. The contributions will be distributed among needy families.

One hundred baskets of food were distributed to needy families
today in the office of Gabriel Roth, the Constable of the Fifth Justice of the Peace District. Approximately 100 baskets will be delivered tomorrow evening by Justice of the Peace C. E. Clark who provided 4000 apples for the Negro children of the Vashon, Lincoln and Waring public schools today.

Children of that district will be entertained and receive gifts at a party in the Rubicon Business School hall, Grand avenue and Poyon street Friday night, sponsored by the Tenth Ward Boys' Republican Club.

FURTHER DECREASE IN U. S. PRODUCTION

Federal Reserve Board Says Industries Fell Below Last Year's Level in November

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Industrial production declined in November for the fifth consecutive month and fell below the level of last year, but the Federal Reserve Board, in making this known yesterday through its monthly bulletin, said the decline in output must have been less than that in the volume of production.

Retail sales at department stores, the review said, continue at a larger volume than a year ago, but wholesale commodity prices moved downward in November and the first half of December. Production in basic industries declined by 3 per cent in November and was 2 per cent lower than a year ago.

"The decline in production, which began in midsummer," the bulletin continued, "was restricted prior to November largely to industries in which the expansion during the earlier part of the year had been exceedingly rapid, particularly iron and steel, automobiles and related industries. The same industries showed the largest reductions in November, but there were declines also in the copper, cotton and wool textiles, and shoe industries, and, in smaller degree, in silk textiles and coal. Production of crude petroleum also was curtailed. Volume of building contracts awarded during the month continued to be considerably smaller than in the corresponding period of 1928.

"Employment in factories was also reduced during November to a level slightly below a year ago and there was a somewhat larger decrease in factory payrolls. The decline in employment since midsummer, however, has been relatively smaller than that in the physical volume of production."

The board reported that liquidation of bank credit, which had begun in November, continued throughout that month and the first two weeks of December when loans and investments of reporting member banks were at about the same level as on Oct. 23, prior to the increase caused by the withdrawal of funds of non-banking lenders.

The board found that the number of banks operating branches increased by 17 in the fiscal year ending last June 30, but the number of branches in operation increased 210 to a total of 3448. Of the number of branches, one-half were in New York, California and Michigan.

In California where branch banking is permitted under state law the number of branches was 841, in Michigan 61 banks out of a total of 742 were operating 455 branches while in New York 106 banks out of a total of 1141 were operating 653 branches.

Chain or group banking, the board found, increased in most states, but such banking developments were particularly noticeable in Minnesota, North Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Washington, Utah, New York and New Jersey. In eight of the states branch banking is prohibited and this, the board said, may have stimulated the chain banking growth. It noted also considerable growth in chain banking in California.

Three held as Croatian Plotters. By the Associated Press. ZAGREB, Croatia, Dec. 22.—Dr. Matichuk, leader of the former Raditch party, was arrested today with Col. Egio and Deputy Jelachich on charges of inspiring and financing a series of outrages, among them the placing of a bomb in the Zagreb cathedral on the King's birthday. Eight other persons were arrested as accomplices.

KELVINATOR

Small down payment; balance in easy monthly payments with your electric bill.

EVERYWHERE, among men as well as women, the remarkable new automatic features of the latest Kelvinator models are hailed as the greatest advancements ever made in electric refrigeration for the home.

Those who have seen this new Kelvinator within the past few weeks have marveled at the efficiency with which the new super-automatic Kelvinators perform three distinct tasks of refrigeration, without regulation or adjustment of any kind.

Entirely apart from the balanced operating ease of the new Kelvinators, the new beauty and utility of Kelvinator cabinets are coming in for a great share of public enthusiasm.

Each new Kelvinator is lined with gleaming white porcelain—easily cleaned and kept clean. Massive chromium-plated hardware in dull finish, adds both to the attractiveness and durability of these modern cabinets. Food shelves are of the straightwire type that permits easy moving of dishes and other containers.

Food compartments are exceptionally roomy and are located at a level that eliminates stooping when having access to the refrigerator. A new flexible rubber ice tray permitting instant removal of ice cubes will appeal to all who have struggled with the old-fashioned metal tray in extracting ice.

Measured by any previous standards, the new super-automatic Kelvinators unquestionably offer today's greatest value in fully automatic refrigeration.

The new Kelvinators are on display in all Union Electric Stores; come in and see them. We will gladly explain the many new features to you.

CIVIL COURTS TO MOVE AT ONE TIME INTO NEW BUILDING
Circuit Judges Decide at Term Meeting to Wait Until April 1.

The 12 civil divisions of Circuit Court will remain in the old Court House until all courtrooms in the new Civil Courts Building are ready for occupancy, the Circuit Judges decided today at their term meeting.

Comptroller Nolte had offered to prepare two courtrooms by Jan. 1 for Judges Baker and Hale, who have been assigned to the newly-created divisions for which on courtrooms are available, but the Judges decided to wait until after April 1 when it is expected all the new courtrooms will be available.

Judge Baker has been using Judge Killore's chambers as a courtroom to hear condemnation cases and Judge Hale has been ill for several weeks.

The Judges also decided to take no action on the proposed changes in the method of summoning jurors which have been under consideration for several months. They discussed a plan for notifying prospective jurors that applications to be excused must be submitted the Friday before the week in which the persons are to serve in order to eliminate the necessity of summoning more men than are actually needed. The Judges decided, however, that nothing could be done without the enactment of a state law governing jury procedure.

FRANZ ESTATE SUIT TAKEN IN ADVISEMENT

Trustees G. A. Buder and G. A. Franz Assailed and Defended in Arguments.

The suit of heirs to contest G. A. Buder and G. A. Franz as trustees of the $12,000,000 estate of Edward D. Franz was taken under advisement by Federal Judge Farris today after arguments by counsel.

The trustees were defended by their lawyers, O. E. Buder and G. A. Buder Jr., brother and son of G. A. Buder. The lawyers reviewed the enormous growth of the estate under the trusteeship and declared the trustees had acted for the best interests of all concerned.

As is known, the estate was founded on a $11,000 investment in 1874 by Franz, a North St. Louis grocer, in stock of what is now the Burroughs Adding Machine Co.

Thomas Pierce and Earl Nelson, attorneys for some of the heirs who are dissatisfied with the trustees, accused the trustees of denying information to the heirs and then, when ordered by the Court to render an accounting, of filing a "skeleton" statement. Attorney Pierce said:

"We want a change in the trusteeship chiefly because we would like to have a trustee who is tolerable—somebody we can talk to, at least."

E. M. FLESH DECLINES JOB WITH GRAIN CORPORATION
St. Louisman Was Asked to Take Post as General Manager.

Two Weeks Ago.

Edward M. Flish, St. Louis grain broker, who was president of the United States Grain Corporation, a Government war-time activity, has declined an offer to become general manager of the National Farmers Grain Corporation under the Federal Farm Board.

Flish, at Hotel Coronado today, said the offer had been made two weeks ago by Chairman Legge of the Farm Board and had been declined for purely personal reasons.

"My work on the war-time grain corporation took me away from home, and since that has been liquidated, I have returned to St. Louis and want to be located in this city, my home," Flish said.

WIFE SUES BANKER WERTHEIM
Daughter of Henry Morgenthau Charges Incompatibility.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Dec. 22.—The artistic temperament of Alma Morgenthau Wertheim and the financial desires of her husband, Maurice Wertheim, New York banker, clashed after 10 years of married life, according to a divorce complaint charging incompatibility filed by the wife in District Court here today. The case will be tried soon.

Mrs. Wertheim is the daughter of Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey. The Wertheim wedding took place in New York on April 15, 1919. The custody of three daughters will be equally divided, the complaint states.

CORONER SAYS BE CAREFUL OF LIQUOR AND AUTOMOBILES

Coroner Dyer today warned holiday revelers to be cautious in their use of liquor and automobiles. He recalled that last year the coroner was required to investigate 23 fatalities during the holiday period and that many of them were due directly or indirectly to the drinking of bad liquor or to careless operation of automobiles.

"If you must drink, leave your automobile at home and use a taxi cab," he said.

Burns resulting from fires of Christmas decorations have ceased to be an important factor in holiday fatalities since electric decorations came into use, Coroner Dyer said.

Economist Who Drew Preliminary Drafts for I. C. C. Thinks Final Proposal Lacks Financial Strength.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 23.—Prof. William Z. Phipley of Harvard, who drew the preliminary drafts of the Interstate Commerce Commission's railroad consolidation plan in 1932 last night characterized the final plans as announced by the Commission in Washington as "startling and disconcerting," and apparently worked out without consideration of the important point of "operating efficiency and financial equality in strength."

Prof. Ripley attracted much attention by his book "Main Street and Wall Street," in which he decided the tendency of some large corporations to deprive the great body of their stockholders of any voice in the management through the issue of non-voting stock.

"The plan is to me decidedly startling and disconcerting because it does not seem to be worked out

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Sunday Hunting in Lincoln County. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read an editorial headed "Unrepealed Blue Laws" in which you criticized the officers of Lincoln County for enforcing the law against hunting on Sunday.

I am the Prosecuting Attorney of this county and gave the Sheriff instructions to arrest any person found hunting in this county on Sunday. We have a good Sheriff who tries to do his duty under our law.

I believe if you understood the reason for enforcing this law you would not have published this editorial. The law is part of our statutes and should be enforced regardless of any special reason, but I will give you the facts and special reasons for the order to enforce same.

The people in the country do their labor six days in the week and usually attend church services on Sunday. The churches are located throughout the county convenient for the people.

Most of our farmers object to hunting on their land at any time, and especially on Sunday. They also object to killing quail on their lands.

On Saturday afternoon and Sunday the hunters from the city swarm to the country, with gun and dogs, to kill what wild game they can find. They usually do not get permission from the land owner to hunt on his land, and they do not consider the services held in the country churches.

During the month of November I had complaints from many of our citizens who claimed the foreign hunters made so much noise by shooting near the churches that it disturbed the services.

I also had many complaints from our farmers who claimed the foreign hunters would refuse to get off of their lands when requested to do so. In some cases the hunter would abuse the farmer, use violent language, and inform him he would hunt when and where he pleased. In one case the farmer was actually assaulted by the hunter.

It was on account of such actions on the part of the hunters that the special order was given to stop Sunday hunting.

I am wondering what the officers of your city would do if the people from the country would come to your city on Sunday and disturb the religious services by loud and unusual noises, and would refuse to get off of private property when requested to do so by the owner? I am also wondering what you would say, editorially, if your officers would refuse to take notice of such law violation?

I appreciate the fact that there are many hunters from the cities who would not do the things above mentioned, but it is on account of the hunters who do such things that it is right and necessary to enforce this law.

An Artist's Opinion.

NEVER again will I poke fun at inoffensive old Frank F. Blair on Lindell and the next time I pass shall climb up, apologize and shake him by his good right hand.

Someone wrote: "See the new statue at Grand and Pine and laugh." It is to cry; tourists and visitors will do the laughing and at our expense.

What a bunch of morons we are to be laughing like that. If you want sniffling around the City Hall they would say you were a knacker and clap you in their nice clean jail.

But just the same, while some of us may not know much about art and are hazy about Civil War Generals, we do remember what a horse looks like, and it is not necessary for us to go to the 101 Ranch to find it out, either.

C. K. GLEASON.

Criticism of Provident Association.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Community Fund went over the top but if many more such cases occur in which its member agencies play a role similar to one I learned of yesterday it will never do so again. It will first be forced to clean house, riding itself of agencies whose work overlaps or whose activities are misplaced, inefficient or unwisely directed.

The occurrence to which I allude is this:

At the suggestion of neighbors, a woman, the mother of a destitute family, walked several blocks in the rain to the South Side branch of the Provident Association, her sick baby in her arms. Instead of attending to her story, she was told to "go back home and send your husband—we would rather deal with a man." So she trudged back through the rain.

The husband, who had been engaged in a fruitless search for work—any kind of work—for seven weeks, since he was "laid off" at a belting factory, went to the association's office in the afternoon. He was told that a representative would "try" to visit him "tomorrow."

In the meantime, his wife and three small children are in want, helped temporarily by the generosity of neighbors. They live at 1414 Cherokee street. They came to St. Louis after facing terrible conditions in the Gastonia textile mills—but they found worse conditions here.

SENATORS AND THE STATES.

Representative Underhill of Massachusetts has introduced in the House a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment restoring the original method of election of United States Senators by our state legislatures, which was abandoned for popular election by the adoption of the seventeenth amendment in 1913.

In the constitutional convention of 1787, George Mason of Virginia is credited with evolving the democratic and Federal features which characterized the composition of Congress, and his object in insisting upon the selection of Senators by the state legislatures was to give the states representation in their political and corporate character. To elect Representatives and Senators by popular suffrage, he contended, would leave the states defenseless as autonomous units and sooner or later render them mere geographical areas in a consolidated Federal empire.

The same justification—that of buttressing the dual system—was cited by Madison, Jay and Hamilton in the Federalist. It was impossible, in their view, for a single government to operate effectively and safely over so vast a country, and to prevent such an attempt the states must have the means of defending themselves in a Senate where they were represented in their political capacity.

When one looks back only as far as 1913 and observes the rapid strides of Federal power, its constant absorption of jurisdiction over state and local concerns, with a corresponding loss of dignity and autonomy to the states, the need of some expedient to check this process becomes only too apparent. Whether the destruction of the Federal features in senatorial representation and complete democratization of Congress since 1913 have been the chief cause of accelerating the centralization of power in Washington or not, they have coincided with the most alarming transformation in the Federal Government witnessed in any other 16 years of its history.

In 1913 the ordinary citizen was scarcely aware that the Federal Government was functioning, so rarely did it touch him in any of its activities; today it has its hand in every man's pocket, its spies track his footsteps day and night, its victrola and inquisitorial laws are enforced with a ruthlessness and an energy that has filled to overflowing every prison in the land, while its courts have become the tribunals and its attorneys the defenders of all violence its agents wish to inflict upon the citizen.

If restoring the selection of United States Senators to the state legislatures will check in any degree this centralized tyranny and revitalize the states as the exclusive guardians of domestic concerns, it should be done. We are afraid, however, that in a time when the country is so rich as it is, and so swayed by wealth, that to change the system would only be to send a procession of Smiths and Vases to the Senate. During the century or more in which it was tried there is only one brief period—the Adams administration—which is comparable to the present in the caprice and violence of government.

SUNDAY TRESPASSERS.

We reprint on this page a letter from Joseph R. Palmer, Prosecuting Attorney of Lincoln County, regarding the behavior of Sunday hunters, in answer to an editorial criticizing the old blue laws against hunting on Sunday. We sympathize entirely with his objection to those who hunt on private land without permission. As it happens, however, there is a law covering this inexcusable act, making it unnecessary to invoke the old blue law. Section 5663 of the Missouri statutes provides that every person who shall be found hunting, with gun or dog, upon the inclosed, improved or cultivated lands of another . . . without the consent of the owner . . . shall, on complaint of such owner . . . and upon conviction therefor, be fined not exceeding $10.

THE CALVIN COOLIDGE OF FRANCE.

Emile Loubet, former President of France who has died, was his country's Calvin Coolidge. Like Cal, he came from rural stock, studied law, climbed tediously up the political ladder, was very simple in his tastes and gave France a "safe and sane" administration. It may well be that his campaign slogan in far-off 1899 was "Keep Cool With Loubet." The color and gaiety of Elysee Palace had no charm for him. Instead, he rather resented the fate which thrust him into a presidential chair and thwarted his desire to be a farmer. For him the katydids made sweeter music than the cooing of the grande dames of France, and he preferred the quiet of the French countryside to the raucous bawling of the Chamber of Deputies.

In the end he got his wish. His last days were spent sitting serenely at the stove in the village store of Montellimar, smoking a pipe and chatting with the peasants. And undoubtedly the best yarn the nonagenarian reeled off to the gaping clothophers was how, many years ago, he pardoned the persecuted Capt. Dreyfus. That was the bright particular gem in Loubet's crown.

Commission form of government has succeeded in many cities, and now Mr. Hoover is trying it on the whole country.

GEOGRAPHIC SPELLING REFORM.

The "simplified spelling" advocates began working on us back in 1906, but today one rarely sees the words and there in print. Now the National Geographic Society is tilting at a similar windmill, and begins the fight with a handsome map of Europe bearing place names in 46 languages. It urges recognition of the local spelling of foreign names, pointing out that it would expedite mail delivery and would aid the American traveler in identifying places abroad. If we address letters to erroneous Venice instead of to correct Venezia, we may expect to receive them directed to Nuova York or Salzeesstadt, the alleged German rendering of Salt Lake City.

The logic is faultless, but the way of the reformer is toilsome. Most people take pride in what geography they know, and will find themselves too busy to learn it over. The learned society might have a chance if it brought up the subject gradually, with a few simple changes, such as Moskva for Moscow, Praha for Prague, Warszawa for Warsaw, or even blunt, ugly Wien for mellifluous Vienna. Instead, it launches several hundred lawbreakers at an innocent public, which will rebel when told that Albania isn't Albania at all, but Shqipëria, that Egypt is a mere alias for the fascinating land of Mir, that Bulgaria should be pronounced Blagaria. And headline writers never, never will throw over The Hague for that absurdity—'s Gravenhage.

Even worse atrocities are on the map. We fear

there will be fighting in the streets should the society press the points, perfectly correct though they may be, that Brest Litovsk really is Brestec and Bugiem and that Ireland has become Saorstát Eireann. And how can anyone expect this nation of simple syllables to recognize a country which masquerades as Russia or the U. S. S. R. when its real and diabolical name is Soyuz Sovetskikh Sotsialisticheskikh Respublik?

THE DRYS ARE NERVOUS.

Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Harris of Georgia, both bone dry, are throwing bricks at the Law Enforcement Commission appointed by President Hoover.

Senator Harris submitted a resolution asking Mr. Hoover to have his commission make a preliminary report to be used in connection with the appropriations to be made for prohibition enforcement.

Senator Glass denounced the commission for not making any report within eight months and charged that it had shunted aside the principal object for which it was created, the investigation of prohibition enforcement. He declared that not another dollar would be appropriated for the commission until it submitted a report.

We don't know anything about the work of the commission, but we do know that it has a wide field of investigation and can understand why it would not want to make an incomplete report from which no sound opinion could be formed.

Senator Harris went beyond Senator Glass and attempted to discredit the commission in advance of any report. He declared that there never could be any report on prohibition enforcement "if the chairman (Wickersham) and some others can prevent it." All the enemies of prohibition, he said, want the commission to remain silent. He called the investigation a star chamber proceeding.

Evidently the drys are getting nervous about the commission's report. They are afraid it will not fit their preconceived notion of what the report ought to be. The commission does not suit them anyhow, because every member is not a shouting supporter of the Anti-Saloon League. In their view no commission can make a fair and honest report unless the members are unable to see or hear anything that indicates a flaw in the prohibition laws and their enforcement.

The findings of the commission would be valueless, if it were subservient to either side of the prohibition question. Its plain duty is to get all the facts possible and how to the line of truth. That is what the public wants and the Government needs.

HIGH PRICE FOR WOUNDED HEARTS.

Prosperity rules, reigns, is rampant in one market—the matrimonial market. The price of wounded hearts soared into the blue when a Detroit jury awarded Miss Bertha Cleavenger, a coy maiden of 43, boarding house keeper, $450,000 for breach of promise from John H. Castle, wealthy capitalist. Miss Cleavenger not only got heart balm in abundance, but silks, perfumes, automobiles and good bait for a more faithful suitor. Cheer up, old maids, the path to fortune lies before you.

A PUBLIC MAN'S NAME.

Every decent citizen resents the use of the President's name in the voluminous correspondence of the sugar lobby, but the high-tempered suggestion of Representative Garner of Texas that Mr. Hoover deny or affirm the charge of conniving with the sugar crowd, to effect tariff legislation, will, we believe, leave most of us cold.

For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the Heavens Chide is no more peculiar than the professional lobbyist. No man in public life is immune from the lobbyist's friendly relations. Were a Democratic administration in power the Lakins, Shattucks and the rest of the tribe might be referring familiarly and frequently to Mr. Garner as evidence of their value to the interests employing them. And Mr. Garner or any other influential member of Congress would be just as helpless in the circumstances as is Mr. Hoover.

If we credit Mr. Hoover with the average measure of common sense and a proper conception of the dignity of his office—as public opinion does—we can dismiss the vainglorious of Lakin and the posturing of Shattuck as simply the counterfeit stuff of lobbyists. Certainly we shall neither convict nor even suspect, the President of any such complicity.

We do think, however, that Mr. Shattuck, who apparently has been on friendly terms with Mr. Hoover, is in an uncomfortable position, partly of his own making. Seemingly he was employed by the Cuban sugar interests because of this friendship. Seemingly he capitalized that friendship. Such deportment does not have to be characterized. What may be observed is that no ethical lawyer would have accepted a retainer in such circumstances.

Whether disbarment proceedings should be instituted the layman would hesitate to say. But the court of public opinion has, we feel sure, passed sentence on Mr. Shattuck.

NEWS REEL.

Chicago Judge says 15-year-old wife is too young to get alimony, and Detroit jury awards woman, 43, judgment of $450,000 for breach of promise; auto drivers in Ceylon advocate law to compel draft elephants to wear headlights; and New York woman carries red lantern for use in crossing street and boarding trolley cars; Maryland girl offers to marry anyone who will give $5000 to her family, and falling (England) pastor finds no takers for American millionaires' offer of $15,000 a year and luxurious home for British wife; South African Premier says buying autos on payments is sending the world on road to perdition, and Oklahoma Justice of Peace has 75 suits against defaulting buyers of Bibles on installments; Mayor Walker's salary is increased to $40,000 a year, and correspondent cables that Ramsey MacDonald gets no pay for being Premier of Great Britain; burro falls over 500-foot cliff in Cascade forest, Oregon, without injury, and Norriatons (Pa.) man, giving heavy sneeze, fractures collar bone; Constance Bennett, film actress, gets $1,000,000 divorce settlement, and Cortland (N. Y.) woman complains ex-husband is 45 years behind in alimony payments.

If, as the critic states, the horse on which Gen. Lyon is astride is going in several different directions, we may at last have discovered the famous horseman to whom President Wilson was wont to allude when he said the infallible Teddy reminded him of a man who "jumped on his horse and rode off in all directions."

PULLED HIS WHISKERS OFF.

Preparedness and Paredness

President Hoover's budget report in stating that 72 cents of every dollar spent by U. S. goes for wars and national defense uses unfair classifications, military publication charges; including cost of caring for veterans is called "veritable distortion of figures;" large part of expenditures laid to lack of preparedness.

From the Army and Navy Register.

ONLY as a contribution to the presidential campaign to reduce the appropriations made available for the support of the military-naval establishment in 1930-31 and the sum available for national defense, may be accepted at its face value the so-called "simplified" or "personal" budget, pertaining to national finances, into which the appropriations for the current year, and the estimates for the next fiscal year, have been compiled and "grouped." It is carefully announced in the statement accompanying these statistics that the President "did not make the analysis," but there is no concealment of the fact that it has been accepted without question by him, and is now presented, presumably at his instance, for widespread publication "in order that the man in the street will be better able to understand the Nation's budget of $3,830,448,231."

Further comment attaching to this "vest-pocket list of Government expenses" includes the assertion: A study of his (Mr. Hoover's) grouped summary showed that 72 cents on every dollar expended by the National Government, irrespective of the expenditures of the states and cities, would go to pay for the wars of the past and for national defense. But 3 cents of the dollar will be used to keep the machinery of Government going. 11 cents will go to the social and business aids and subsidies, and 7 cents to maintaining the Government's fiscal affairs. Outstanding in the President's presentation was the item of $1,254,324,000 for the payment of the public debt, both principal and interest. The Government will have to pay to veterans of former wars $759,739,895, and Congress has been asked by the President to appropriate $719,089,383 for the national defense.

This statement suggests pacifist sources of inspiration, if not of actual construction. It is, indeed, the familiar accusation which has been repeatedly affixed to previous situations, and now revamped to fit contemporary circumstances. There is unfairness in the classification of these groups in such fashion as to convey the impression that "72 per cent of United States expenses go to pay for wars."

If the 1930 appropriations and the 1931 estimates embraced in the item for "vet-erans of foreign wars" possess any signif-cance that is entitled to respectful consideration, it is the outstanding and indisputable fact that the $832,329,804 available for expenditure and the $719,089,383, contemplated and recommended for allotment in 1931, represents nothing nearer to "national defense" than the tragic consequences of unpreparedness, to cope with previous wars, and the cost resulting from the utter lack of national defense. It is manifestly a veritable distortion of figures, applying to the cost of operation and protection of this nation, that cost of caring and relieving war veterans to the item which is designated in general terms in the presidential analysis as "national defense."

The author of the association of figures in such a comparison might very well be challenged for his inaccuracy and criticized for his motives. The purpose of giving uncommon publicity to the comparison must remain the occasion for speculation, and constitutes an incident that may properly be treated with respectful silence at this time. It is certain that, if there is no other result, it will furnish gratuitously an opportunity for the attack hitherto conducted by the professional pacifists against adequate provision for national defense. It will undoubtedly be urged that in such an ingenious collection of statistics, there should be no more naval vessels authorized, and that the military force could be reduced in its numerical strength, so long as the enticing subterfuge survives at the sacrifice of security to the country.

With the assertion of proportionate expenditure of the public funds "for wars," insofar as it represents an actual draft upon the citizens of this country for their protection and the protection of their business and families—as nearly as such security can be assured—there might be evoked the rejoinder, with entire satisfaction, that the 72 per cent is not so outrageous as to justify amusement, terror or indignation. This country, with its vast resources, its grave responsibilities and its obligation to defend its people and their industries, might very well regard itself as entitled to make the expenditure, especially when one reckons the cost of failure to protect the nation. As one expert has remarked, what would the people now be paying in taxes if the United States had been defeated, just as it is now paying for the misguided policy that refused to adequately defend the nation?

St. Louis Should Be Reconciled

From the Kansas City Star.

ST. LOUIS, which is greatly disturbed over the horse on which Gen. Nathaniel Lyon is mounted in the statue erected there, should be comforted by the knowledge that it is in good company in its distress. London is having a terrible time over the sculpture horse of Earl Haig in a new statue. Retired officers have taken to writing letters to the Times saying there never was such a horse in the army. To which the sculptor has retorted that he isn't making a photographic copy of a horse; he is presenting a conventionalized and eternal horse; a symbol of a horse rather than a cavalry animal.

Sculptors have their own ideas about horses, as the one on which Gen. Jackson is mounted in the square in front of the White House in Washington bears witness, often called a rocking horse by the irreverent.

So St. Louis might as well be reconciled. It must expect to disagree with any sculptor as to what a horse in stone should look like.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.

A T last Senator Thad Caraway of Arkansas has withdrawn the cloak of secrecy that has for so long concealed his actions in the days before he came to Congress.

Senator Caraway is the only United States Senator who refuses to talk about himself in the Congressional Directory. In the space provided for biographies of members of Congress, where some of these gentlemen use as much as a half page in telling of their past accomplishment, the sharp-tongued Arkansasian is not represented. It was at a little party given by Washington newspaper men the other evening at which he was the guest of honor, that Senator Thad loosened up and told something about his earlier life.

FROM his own lips came the admission that he was once a newspaper man—for a very short time. His venture into the fourth estate, described in the Senator's inimitable Southern drawl, was this: "Out here (he always refers to Arkansas in this manner) I once got hold of a newspaper in a very small town. The Boxer Rebellion in China was claiming attention of the world. The first issue of my paper carried a startling front page editorial, written by me, criticizing the activities of missionaries in China and pointing out that they were responsible for a lot of the trouble that country was having."

"Then I sat back to await the fireworks. Days passed, but the calm of my office was never disturbed. Two preachers lived in that town, but neither one of them got mad at me. Right then and there I quit. A man who can't make two preachers mad, editorializing on a subject like that, has no business running a newspaper."

SENATOR CARAWAY also told about the time when he and an ex-serviceman had a fight in Washington's downtown area. The misunderstanding developed while the two were hanging to straps in a street car during the rush hour. Their differences were carried to the street, and Caraway was later made defendant in a suit charging personal attack.

"I got more publicity out of that than I have received since I have been in Congress," said the Senator. "Newspapers carried two-column pictures of me showing what a bruiser I really was."

"But I lay the facts before you. He had on a derby and I had an open umbrella. I ask you, can two men pass telling lies so handicapped?"

OPPORTUNITIES IN AVIATION. Walter Dill (Norton). Although Walter Dill seems to be little known to the street, he is one of the most distinguished of American aviators. He was the first to serve as chief flight instructor at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., was chosen by the Navy to act as pilot of the trans-Atlantic flight of the NC-4. Three years under the auspices of the Navy, he made the first flight between North and South America in 1924-25. He was the first to fly into the jungles of the Amazon, thus being the first to bring the first to the airplane in "exploration" of the Amazon. He is president of the Aviation Institute of the U. S. at Washington.

The present volume is the result of Dill's experience as an aviator, but of a more practical condition and prospects of the aviation industry recently made with all the facilities of the moment at his disposal. It is of value to thousands of young men who are feeling about for some sort of work upon the world. It should be of great interest to St. Louis, in particular, considering our inland metropolis now in process of becoming a port on an ocean that is more than all the seven seas to-not with the romantic aviation of the past. The book, despite the fact that it is written for the history of aviation, is a very practical book. It is of preparing the minds of men for participating in the benefits of the industry. The book was written for the history of aviation, and is a very practical book. RAIL MERGER

PLAN ASSAILED
BY PROF. RIPLEY

an system. It would be a pigmy among giants.

"Furthermore the very lines allocated to it east of Toledo are, in various ways, of the utmost importance for incorporation in the existing big systems, in order to give them relief by a short line, from the roundabout routes they now have to follow.

"The New York Central, for example, must go up to Albany before it goes west and the Baltimore & Ohio down to Washington.

"To create a fifth trunk line on a shaky stem would be bad enough for this reason, but another sin in my judgment, is committed when they tack on to the fifth system a property which, at least until recently, has been subnormal financially, the Seaboard Airline.

Systems Too Extended.

"This brings us to another characteristic of the plan, which seems to me radically unwise. Some of these systems sprawl over trunk line territory, western territory out to Kansas City and the southern territory down to Southern Florida.

"Thus its fate is involved with the rate schedules in three entirely distinct territories — trunk line, western and southeastern. Each of these regions has a rate system peculiar to itself, and tariffs have to be constructed for each region in accordance with its needs and practices.

"I believe that a cardinal principle should be to confine each system to a definite rate territory even if it takes time to bring it about.

"This principle, however, seems to be substantially disregarded in the plan.

"New England roads are projected into trunk line territory. The Illinois Central is extended far to the North and into the Southwest. The Burlington reaches from Canada to Mexico. Mobile and Ohio, down by the Gulf, is tied in with the Chicago-Northwestern.

"There are many admirable features of the plan—notably the proposal for open terminals—terminals, that is to say, not tied up to individual systems, but existing for the use of all. Nothing will promote the public interest more than such a plan carefully worked out for the separation of the main stems of the railways from the pick-up-and-delivery systems, in and about the great centers of population.

"I cannot avoid the conclusion that the Commission's activities for almost a decade under the Act of 1920, with reference to consolidation, have been characterized rather by economic pillage than by statesmanship. Had they taken hold of the problem manfully, and by that I do not mean rudely disturbing existing relationships, but diplomatically, much might already have been accomplished."

ner structure of that head is upset, and the hereditary characteristics it stands for is correspondingly transformed.

That solved the problem of producing mutations artificially, but it left unanswered the great question: How did nature produce them?

That is the question which Prof. Hanson attacked in experiments which he will describe at the Christmas meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Des Moines, just two years after the association awarded its annual $1000 prize to Prof. Muller for his initial work with X-rays.

Radiation, Prof. Hanson knew, is present throughout nature. Natural radiation is intensified in many caves where the proportion of radioactive substances—such as potassium, to a degree, and the traces of uranium or radium—is unusually great.

Hence many week-end just spring and summer found Prof. Hanson and a graduate student in physics, armed with a particularly sensitive electrometer, exploring caves and lead mines in the Ozarks. None showed a sufficient increase in radiation over that indicated in the ordinary atmosphere of the laboratory back in St. Louis.

Ten days before the fall term opened, the biologist and the physicist packed up their electrometer and fruit flies and went to Colorado. From the State Geological Survey they learned of radioactive springs, and explored a number, but the flies were not fishes, and the scientists had to ask the survey for the location of mines where gold flies could be exposed to radiation in air rather than water.

In East Platte Valley, in Black Platte Valley, almost inaccessible in Western Colorado, was an abandoned carbonate mine. Carnotite includes uranium and traces of radium. Here the flies were exposed for 140 hours. A certain mutation occurred once in every 400 cases, as compared to one in 1000 where natural radiation was down to normal.

At the same time a correspondent of Prof. Hanson, Prof. E. B. Babcock of the University of California, had discovered that natural radiation was unusually high in a street car tunnel in San Francisco and was trying a similar experiment. There the mutation occurred once in 192 cases, as compared to once in 338 under normal conditions.

"This definitely sets up the hypothesis that all mutations in nature are caused by natural radiation," summarized Prof. Hanson. "That is what we are trying to prove or disprove. These experiments are not conclusive, proof work along similar lines may bring it out."

Natural radiation includes not only these "earth rays," but also the cosmic rays discovered three years ago by Prof. Robert A. Millikan. Prof. Hanson and others in the international community of biologists—at least one great physicist—believe the cosmic rays may have a part in organic evolution.

Oddly enough, their discovery is said to doubt the evidence of evolution in man. But he has described their part in cosmic evolution as by-products in the birth of oxygen, silicon, magnesium and iron from the hydrogen atom in interstellar space.

To Try Out the Cosmic Rays. Prof. Muller and Dr. Hanson planned to try cosmic rays on the fruit fly next summer. It would require elaborate equipment, since the rays can penetrate water to great depth and even pass through several feet of lead, an effective barrier to X-rays.

They planned to take fruit flies to snow-capped mountain lakes, such as Muir or Whitney in California, where Millikan made his discovery. The lakes are free of earth rays.

FIGHT CONTINUED AGAINST PATENTED PAVING MATERIALS

Bureau of Municipal Research Submits Figures Declaring Sheet Asphalt Lasts Longer, Costs Less.

OAKLAND AVENUE REPAVING IS CITED

Warrenite Originally Laid Seven Years Ago—Report Urges That Bidding Be Competitive.

Continuing its fight on the non-competitive use of patented asphaltic street paving materials, the Bureau of Municipal Research sent to the Board of Public Service today a comparison of prices and longevity of the patented types and sheet asphalt, which is not patented.

The bureau referred in this communication to one specific instance of short usage of a patented pavement—Warrenite on Oakland avenue, between Kingshighway and Forest Park Highlands. When replaced during the fiscal year 1928-29, the bureau said, this pavement had been in service only seven years.

During the same fiscal year, the statement went on, 2.13 miles of Warrenite pavement was reconstructed or resurfaced, which had an average age of 14 years, or, excluding the Oakland avenue job, an average age of 19 years, while 2.52 miles of sheet asphalt pavement was reconstructed or resurfaced which had an average age of 24 years.

For the 10-year period of 1918-28, the bureau continued, 28.58 miles of Warrenite paving with average age of 16 years was reconstructed or resurfaced, and 27.41 miles of sheet asphalt with average age of 19 years.

"The city's records," said the statement, "show that during 1929, as in previous years, the average age of Warrenite paving replaced was less than the average age of sheet asphalt replaced. During the seven years from 1923 to 1929 property owners have been assessed more than $1,850,000 for construction of patented pavements. Had these been laid at the average prices for non-patented types, the property owners would have been saved approximately $725,000. Approximately $125,000 would have been saved property owners in 1929 had the 188,250 square yards of patented paving laid this year been laid at the average price of sheet asphalt.

"It has been pointed out that the city's record, do not show that patented pavements give any better service or cost any less to maintain than sheet asphalt, which is probably the oldest and most extensively used type of asphalt paving in this country. The bureau has repeatedly urged that the Board of Public Service either discontinue the specification of patented paving or that it require the patented types to be bid in competition with nonpatented paving.

"The Board of Public Service continued to specify patented paving during 1929. Fifty-three per cent of the yardage of asphalt paving contracted for was awarded to patented types. Contracts were awarded for 188,250 square yards of Warrenite and Amiesite, for $1,143,771, while contracts were awarded for 189,215 square yards of sheet asphalt, for $1,016,468. During the past seven years the board has awarded contracts for approximately 1,414,000 square yards of patented asphalt paving for $7,662,000, as compared with approximately 1,484,200 square yards of sheet asphalt for $7,447,500.

"The bureau's report in December, 1928, showed that during the six years from 1923 to 1928, with the exception of a few instances in 1923, 1924 and 1925, the average prices of the patented pavements were higher than those of the non-patented type. During 1929 the average prices of the patented pavements continued to be considerably higher than those of the non-patented type. During 1929 an average of 2.8 bids were received at each letting for Warrenite and Amiesite, compared with 3.1 for nonpatented asphalt.

"This bureau has urged that the Board of Public Service either discontinue the specification of patented pavements or require them to be bid in competition with non-patented types. When patented pavements are specified, without alternatives, competition is restricted to the control of contractors who hold the patents or license agreements. It is reported that two contractors in St. Louis have license to lay Warrenite and one contractor has license to lay Amiesite.

This was a reference to the Granite Bituminous Paving Co. and the Central Paving & Construction Co., which handle Warrenite, and the Webb-Besser Paving Co., which handles Amiesite. Under certain conditions other contractors may use these materials, Amiesite and asphaltic concrete, the bureau's communication said, have not been in service here long enough to enable comparisons of their average life with sheet asphalt. Asphaltic concrete is a thin layer of sheet asphalt on the usual concrete base.

used on streets having light traffic. The bureau repeated its suggestion that patented pavements be discontinued or be required to be bid in competition with sheet asphalt and declared that the Board of Aldermen might refuse to pass paving ordinances initiated by the Board of Public Service which specify only the patented materials.

As the Post-Dispatch has shown recently, the Board of Public Service has specified warrants for only seven and a half miles for only two of the 90 asphalt paving projects so far considered for the 1930 program. The other 81 projects call for sheet asphalt at a total estimated cost of $1,506,716, compared with an estimate of $246,432 for the nine patented projects.

CENTRAL TRADES; NINTH TERM
Daniel Murphy was elected to his ninth term as president of the Central Trades and Labor Union and David Kreyling was chosen secretary for the thirtieth time at the annual election yesterday at the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue.

Murphy, business agent for the delivery wagon drivers' union, is a vice president of the Teamsters' International Union. Kreyling, representing the cigar makers' union, was elected by acclamation. Joseph Ebeling of the printing pressmen's union was elected vice president to succeed Murray Douglas, recently defeated for re-election as president of the street car men's union. Ebeling was opposed by Mrs. Mary Ryder, delegate of the Typographical union, who received 62 votes to 33 for Ebeling.

Other officers re-elected were: Peter Beisel, bakery workers' treasurer; John Rastfield, brewery workers' financial secretary; George Fuller, sergeant-at-arms; and Emil Ruhle, W. J. Coombs and Emil Ebeling, trustees.

Murphy, in an address following his re-election, censured St. Louis industries which establish factories in small Missouri and Illinois towns to take advantage of cheap labor.

PART THREE

PERSONS ROBBED WHEN THEY PUT THEIR CARS AWAY

First Victim Is Slugged by Three Men Who Take
Auto and Use It in Other Holdups.

Five persons were robbed of $21 and jewelry valued at $140 when they put their automobiles away at night by three men, one carrying a shotgun, another armed with an automatic pistol and the third serving as chauffeur.

Ralph E. Johnston, 6637 Enright avenue, struck one of the men when they made their appearance at 9:49 o'clock. The other robber slugged Johnston. They took $22, a watch valued at $120,

a $30 wrist watch and drove away

in Johnston's automobile, which was used in subsequent holdups.

Theodore White, 5888 Glen-avenue, was held up for $15 at midnight. Fifteen minutes later Arthur

Hallerman, 6117 Ashland avenue,

was robbed of $14, and his neighbor,

Charles Komeke, who was putting his machine away in the rear of 5113 Ashland, was accosted by the men. Komeke ran down the alley and the robber with the shotgun fired at him, a few of the light

shots striking his shoe.

Two holdups in 15 minutes.

Ramon Brown, 1907A Modia-mont avenue, was held up a half hour later when putting his machine away in the rear of 5883 Cote

Brilliant avenue. They took $11.

William Pfander, 5945 Cote Bril-

liante, reported he was robbed of $29 in the alley 15 minutes later.

Store Holdup at 9:30 A. M.

Harry Kline, assistant manager of a Star Squire store at 5841 Easton avenue, was held up by three men at 9:30 o'clock this morning and robbed of $275. They fled in an automobile.

A Negro at liberty on bond for carrying concealed weapons was captured by police today after he had overpowered Mrs. Maud O.

Heyman, proprietor of a dress shop

at 4851 Delmar boulevard, and robbed her of $29, a $1000 diamond ring and a $50 wrist watch.

Policemen Theole and Loeffler, attracted by the screams of Mrs.

Heyman, who followed the Negro to the door, overtook him in the rear of 5101 Delmar. One shot had been fired without effect. The prisoner said he was Horace Bruce,

4016 Fairfax avenue, and said the concealed weapon charge grew out of the shooting of his wife Oct. 15.

William Jones, manager of an oil filling station at Academy and Easton avenues, thwarted a robber who forced him into an automobile this morning as he was on his way to a bank with a $100 deposit, by leaping from the machine

at Easton and Union boulevard.

"Your service was good; here's your tip," read a note, which, together with $1.89, was found on the cash register of a restaurant at 1319 Market street last night by

Angus Trice, night manager, who had been robbed of $32 and forced into the basement by an armed man.

SOME LAST MINUTE CHRISTMAS HELPS

Often times Suggestions That Simplify Holiday Preparations Are Appreciated.

The most joyous season of the whole year has arrived—winter when all are extremely busy with shopping, plans for the holidays and above all thinking about appetizing dishes to prepare for the holiday season.

Whenever mention is made of seasonal festivity that fine, honest old phrase, "extending the hospitality of the home," comes to mind. To the generous and hospitable hostess this means guests at her home—a well-planned and appropriate menu—an artistically arranged table.

Christmas morning is very often a hectic time when there are small children in the house, and there is usually difficulty in settling them down to anything as prosaic as breakfast. The wise mother will see that this meal is a very simple one—an orange, a small serving of some ready cooked cereal, a slice of toast and a glass of milk will not overtax the excited child's digestion nor take a great deal of time from his pursuit of Christmas pleasures.

In one family sandwiches of bread and butter were always prepared the night before and placed on covered plates on the nursery table together with a thermos bottle of milk. In the morning the children knew that they could eat the fruit from their stockings and have a "party" with the milk, bread and butter. This simple breakfast satisfied appetites before the children got excited and gave them a good start for the day.

Table Decorations. The Christmas centerpiece and table decorations may consist of gay and delightfully arranged flowers, or of greenery. The greenery may be all of the same kind, or of combining shades of green. Holly and mistletoe too may be harmoniously combined with these Christmas sprays of fir and pine, and perhaps some small pine cones. A basket of fruit and nuts with a red ribbon bow fastened to the handle of the basket makes a very festive centerpiece, using the greenery on the table around it.

Christmas Favors. A miniature Christmas tree is always an attractive and appropriate centerpiece. Having small edible candy trees glistening with colored sugar placed in tiny flower pots at the plates adds interest to the family dinner.

HOMEMADE CANDIES FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

An Enjoyable Feature of Christmas Is Getting Ready for It.

Modern housewives pride themselves upon their cooking, consequently many of them are planning to show off their cookery skill this holiday season by making homemade candies to send to their friends as Christmas gifts.

Fudge makes a nice foundation for many attractive home-made candies. For a nice foundation fudge follow this recipe:

Combine two cups of sugar, two tablespoons of corn syrup, one-half cup each of evaporated milk and water, four squares of chocolate and boil to the soft-ball stage, 236 degrees Fahrenheit. Add two tablespoons of butter, but do not stir. Let stand undisturbed until only slightly warmer than the hand, add one teaspoon of vanilla and beat until the gloss disappears. Pack into a buttered pan, cool and cut into pieces. This fudge may be packed into a bowl and used like fondant in making French chocolates.

Three of the nicest candies made with this foundation fudge are French roll, chocolates and nut balls.

Chocolates. Form fudge into balls, small cylinders or cones and dip into chopped nuts; blanched almonds, pistachio nuts and walnuts give different colors.

These candies make very attractive gift boxes and keep soft and fresh almost indefinitely.

Nut Fudge Balls. Melt equal parts of sweet and bitter chocolate. Dip balls of fudge in this and then roll immediately in chopped walnuts.

French Roll. Pat or roll a piece of foundation fudge into an oblong, four by six. Over it place a narrower oblong of almond paste, two by six. Roll like a jelly roll to about one inch diameter and cut into slices. To prepare the almond paste, work one-half cup of powdered sugar and one egg white into one-fourth pound of almond paste. Green coloring is frequently added. White fondant can be substituted for the almond paste, which comes in pound tins.

When to Serve the Coffee. It is considered good form to serve coffee with the main course of the meal, with the dessert and after the dessert. The choice should be made that will best suit.

Vegetable Dish. Boil a piece of salt pork or bacon until tender, remove meat and part of fat that is melted, add green beans, carrots, potatoes and small onions.

COLD WEATHER FRESH FRUITED DRINKS

Make an Appeal to the Palate and Are Extremely Refreshing.

For the holiday dinner, it is frequently advisable for variety's sake to substitute a punch of this type for the fruit cup or frozen mixture. A few years ago only a very few courageous souls would have dared predict the tremendous year-round popularity of fresh fruit drinks as it exists today. The idea of there being an active demand for these "summer drinks" in December would have been scoffed at.

Now, however, people realize that this type of beverage has the same appetizing place every day in the year. They order it for the added reason that oranges and lemons supply valuable vitamins and salts which are at a premium when many fresh fruits and vegetables are not to be had.

A dainty ice-cold drink is dinner punch which is made with two-thirds cup lemon juice, one cup orange juice, one cup sugar, two bottles of ginger ale and crushed ice.

Combine fruit juices and sugar. Just before serving add ginger ale. Pour over crushed ice in glasses or goblets.

Fruited Punch. (For 10 persons.)

A very acceptable beverage for an informal afternoon or evening gathering. Ingredients needed are two and one-half cups sugar, two cups freshly-made tea, three-fourths cup lemon juice, six cups orange juice, two cups crushed pineapple, eight cups water, plain or charged; one cup Maraschino cherries and six oranges sliced thin.

with the pulp on. Make a syrup by boiling sugar and water together for five minutes. Add tea which has been chilled, the fruit juice and crushed pineapple and chili. Add water and pour into punch bowl over block of ice. Serve in punch glasses. Add cherries and orange slices, which should be cut in quarters.

Cardinal Punch. (Makes about 30 servings.)

One quart cranberries, two cups sugar, one cup orange juice, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, one quart soda water and water for cooking the cranberries and for making sugar syrup. Put cranberries and one quart of water in saucepan. Cook until fruit is very soft, crush and drain through double cheesecloth.

Cook sugar with two cups of water for three minutes; add to the cranberry juice with one cup orange juice and one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice.

Just before serving add one quart ice water or soda water and pour over a block of ice.

MAKE POPCORN CHARMS FOR THE CHRISTMAS TREE

What grownup cannot look back to childhood days with a happy sigh, remembering "the way before Christmas" preparations; candy-making, popping corn before the open fire, and the fun of stringing the starry flakes to drape in fascinating loops from branch to branch on the Christmas tree.

No Christmas tree is really complete until it is draped with chains of pop corn. They are easily and quickly made simply by stringing the pop corn on heavy thread as you would string beads.

Children delight in fashioning pop corn balls to be suspended from the branches of the Christmas tree. Then, too, pop corn balls on a stick, wrapped in oiled, transparent paper and tied with holly ribbon, make a jolly filler for the top of the Christmas stocking. They may be made as follows:

FASCISTS' LEAGUE IN U. S. DISBANDED

Head of Organization Denies Action Was Due to Proposed Senate Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Count Ignazio di Revere, head of the "Fascist League of North America," has announced that the organization will disband Dec. 31. Decision to end the league was reached yesterday at a meeting in which delegates from 27 of the 32 chapters voted for it unanimously.

Count Revere said the league had decided to disband because its work in "contributing to the enlightenment of the American public regarding the ideals of Fascism" had been accomplished.

He denied that the league was being dissolved because it was under investigation by the State Department. He also denied that orders to disband had come from Premier Mussolini of Italy or through the Italian embassy at Washington.

Dr. Charles Fama, anti-Fascist leader here, said:

"When the truth is known it will be found that the orders to quit came from Mussolini to the Italian Ambassador in Washington who brought about the present action."

Charges that the league represented an effort of Premier Mussolini to create a political organization in this country, and that the league employed boycott and strong-arm methods to compel allegiance of American Italians to Fascism, resulted in a resolution being introduced in the Senate by Senator Heflin of Alabama, calling on the State Department to investigate the league and report to the Senate.

Clashes between members of the Fascist League and anti-Fascists have frequently required police action to restore order. Three years ago the killing of two Fascist League members here, as they were preparing to march in a Decoration day parade, was laid by their comrades to anti-Fascists.

Kansas City Theater Held Up.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 22.—Bernard Joffe, manager of the Uptown Theater at Broadway and Valentine road here, was counting the day's receipts in the office of the theater last night when a man forced his way into the room, pointed a revolver at Joffe and compelled him to hand over $3500. Joffe backed out the door and escaped.

HEARTS HAVEN

By Mildred Barbour

The Struggle of the Heart and Conscience of Christine Farr

CHAPTER 21.

The Prize Millionaire.

SANFORD looked down at Christine, as she seated herself beside him, and smiled slightly. He was of medium height, dark and dark. His eyes were his most striking feature. They were yellowish-brown, heavy-lidded, and had a sleepy look most of the time, but they could change quickly and be alternately shrewd, cold or ardent. Sardonically, he was perfection itself. It was his eyes that Christine noticed especially, as she smiled up at him.

"I was wondering how soon you were going to do this," he remarked with a slight drawl.

"Do what?" she queried.

"Come and sit beside me."

"Was my impudence as obvious as all that?" she asked laughingly. He shook his head.

"I wished you to come from the moment you entered the room. You are the most interesting-looking woman here."

"That's only because I am new to you," she objected. "You don't know me and you do know all the rest."

"But I have an idea I'd rather like to know you," he said, his air of complete boredom taking the complimentary edge from the remark.

She thought she had never seen a man with an expression of such weariness and lack of interest, and yet she had heard that "Sandy" was a shrewd business man, never to be caught napping.

"How do you happen to have become a member of Nina's circle?" he inquired. "Are you one of her so-called artists, too?"

"Hardly, I work."

"At what?" he inquired, with his curious smile.

"I write."

"Books? Poems? Plays?"

She gazed frankly at him.

"I have written a play; it isn't finished yet."

Nina, who happened to be passing with a plate of sandwiches, overheard her confession and shrieked:

"A play? Why, Chris, you never told me anything about it. What on earth do you know about writing a play?"

The whole crowd shrieked and laughed uproariously.

Christine flushed, but she declared valiantly:

"I don't know anything yet, but I'm going to learn."

She was sorry that she had confessed her secret. She hadn't told a soul that her contact with the theatrical world had inspired in her the desire to write plays. On all sides she heard the claim: "Plays are easy to write; they are the simplest varieties of composition, and, once you get a hit, you are famous. Everybody is doing it—perfectly obscure young writers."

The crowd teased her unmercifully about her fledgling venture and demanded that she read it.

Only Sanford seemed sympathetic. Christine asked him recklessly: "When the play is finished, will you read it?"

"Surely," he agreed. "With pleasure."

Nina called to her from across the room:

"Forget about the play, Chris! Come on and dance for us. We know you can do that, anyway."

A space was cleared in the center of the floor. Somebody played the piano, and Christine danced. There was a lot more pep in Christine's dancing now. She had picked up new steps that just missed being suggestive. The crowd shrieked and applauded vociferously. She finished with a mad whirl that flung her, exhausted and panting, into the arms of one of the men.

"She'd be a wow in vaudeville. Don't you think so, Sandy?" Nina asked of the millionaire, who had watched the performance. But she did not wait for his answer, because there was a call for more cocktails, and she had to hurry to the kitchenette.

A little later it was suddenly decided that the whole party, bored with the restrictions of the studio, would go to Battery Park, take a ferry to Staten Island and wait for the sun to rise over the bay.

"None of us has seen a sunrise in years—except through one eye, as we rattled home in a cab, mere drunks than sober," declared one of the guests.

Christine slipped into Nina's bed room and came out wearing her cheap but smart little coat and hat.

"You are not going?" inquired Sanford, with lifted brows.

"I must get home to my children."

"Children?" he echoed incredulously.

Nina pinched her sharply on the arm.

"That's Christine's little joke, Sandy. It's her alibi for going home when she is bored with us."

To Christine she whispered:

"Don't be a little fool. Do you have to drag in the family every time you meet a new man?"

"I'll drive you home, if you will permit me," said Sanford suddenly. "My car is outside. I don't care much about sunrise either."

SANFORD'S car rolled along streets, damp from their early morning cleansing. Christine leaned against the velvet uphol-tery, enjoying to the full its luxury. This was such a welcome contrast to subway travel. Her thoughts turned to the days when she had had cars and a luxurious home. It was a long time since she had been a butterfly, warm in a silken cocoon!

When the car reached the dingy brownstone block below Washington Square, she pointed out her door and said:

"That is home!"

Sanford assisted her from the car and glanced briefly at the silent house, as if it were exactly what he had expected. Christine interpreted his glance and said flippanantly:

"I gave up my Riverside drive apartment. The drive is becoming so common. All the people who do things are moving down here."

His curious smile took note of her irony.

"I wonder if you'd care to lunch with me on Monday? I'll send my car, if you'll tell me where you'll be at 1 o'clock."

Christine mounted the stairs, on tiptoe with excitement. She told herself that she must have intrigued Henry Sanford or he wouldn't have troubled to invite her to lunch. Her heart sang with hope.

On Monday, Sanford's car called for Christine at her office. She tripped into it, pleasantly conscious of glances, some envious, some malicious. Sanford was waiting at his club. By daylight, he was even more weary of eye, a little behind and aloof. He gave the chauffeur an order and entered the car.

When it came to a stop in front of a restaurant, and Christine glanced out and saw that he was taking her to Sherry's, she drew back and stammered:

"Can't we go somewhere else? Really, I'm not—not—" Her glance faltered down the length of her trim but obviously cheap suit. He understood and laughed lazily.

"You're prettier than any of them—in whatever you wear. Come!"

He led the way inside, where an attentive maitre d'hotel greeted

People Going Nowhere Better Stay at Home

EVERY one is always rushed for time. In this age of hustling and rushing about, we no doubt have to be. Yet "going nowhere" is the usual resort for "where are you going?" with an apparent deal of hurry to get there. It amuses one to discover the small results accomplished by all this rushing. "Going nowhere" is too often such a true answer and too important a matter to be passed by without comment, especially during the holiday season.

"Why not systematize your going?" The best business is built on the most accurate system. Every employer tries to find something useful for his employee to do every minute of the time he is doing anything. Why shouldn't we, as employers of our time, do the same? Wouldn't it be better if the people who do go somewhere have a definite aim, making their going somewhere mean getting some place?

This is the holiday season, as we know too well, and there are so many people who really have to do things that if the few of us who have nothing to do, do nothing, there wouldn't be so many rushers "going nowhere."

If you have nowhere to go, or nothing to do, lucky for you, and why do anything else? If things have to be done, make a list of what you want, where you want to get them, and so to it. But do your "going nowhere" at home in an easy chair with no one to join you and no one to inquire about your destination. And let the room for one more in the crowds be due to your thoughtfulness.

Tempets and percolators should be thoroughly scalded after using.

Daily Story FOR CHILDREN

Out-Door Clocks.

"Of course I am very lucky," commenced "I was given the power to turn the time backward or forward to any time I wished, just so long as I agreed not to keep the ordinary, regular time."

"That is how we are able to have our adventures."

"Wasn't it lucky you lived in our house and we could be asked to share them with you?" John said.

"Glad you think so, glad you think so," the Little Black Clock smiled. He put one of his funny, still hands on each of the children, and, looking at them with his broad, smiling face he went on:

"Yes, I'm mighty glad you think so. But then I do not wish to take all the credit. It was because of the magic that was given to me."

"I am so proud to belong to the Clock family, anyway."

"Yes, you were going to tell us about outdoor clocks keeping well," Peggy said.

"To be sure," said the Little Black Clock. "When there are storms in the winter the clocks that are outside of buildings have to have their lights turned on during the daytime so that the heat from the electricity will melt any snow or ice that might interfere with the hands moving."

"Then there are regular clock doctors who see that clocks are kept right—clocks must have their own particular kind of nourishment, too!"

"But, mercy me. What do I hear? Dear me, dear me, we must hurry. It's time to see him start off."

"I've haven't a minute to waste."

"Here comes the good sleigh with the horses which can almost fly over the snow."

"Come! Jump inside!"

Hints for Hostesses

CUSTOM allows a little delay in the dinner for guests who arrive late, but 30 minutes after the hour designated on the invitation, the dinner should be served regardless of late comers unless this should happen to be the guest of honor. In that case the dinner must await the arrival of this special guest.

A charming method of serving tea is to use the individual combination tea packages recently put on the market. This is a dainty cellophane wrapped package containing a teaball tucked in between two lumps of sugar that are colored and fruit flavored.

The party at which the engagement is announced should be given on the day that the bride-elect wears her engagement ring publicly for the first time.

Household Hints

Ventilate the rooms in which you sleep and work.

Plenty of orange and lemon juice will help when bilious.

Stockings will wear better if the dam is on the cross and not the up and down.

Refrigerators should never be kept in a cellar if it is damp. Dampness is ruinous to them.

The broiler from the oven makes an excellent rack on which to cool pies, cakes, etc., when they come piping hot from the oven.

The straw-burner boiler may continue its activities throughout the winter by acting as an implement to remove pin feathers from poultry.

ANGEL CHILD AND DEVIL CHILD

By Dr. Logan Clendening

THE city in which I was born and brought up was relatively a small one. The neighborhood was smaller than neighborhoods are now. Distances were less. My playmates lived more than a block or two away, most of them across the street or next door. And this city has grown, opportunities have developed within its borders, and most of these playmates of my youth have stayed with me here and are still under observation. I therefore knew them well in childhood and in adult life.

So, as I look back on what they used to be and how they have turned out, I have, I feel, an experience as good as or better than any of the new theoretical psychologists have about the factors in personality development. I have seen results, and can compare them with causes.

The fruit of this garnered experience so far as it is valuable is to the effect that nothing is more hazardous than prophecy. The children who look as if they were going to turn out the worst turn out the best and vice versa.

There is, of course, nothing very new in this pronouncement. But when one reads some of the new psychology he gets the idea that he is hearing some brand fresh discovery, when it is only the mad story of the devil child and the angel child.

Notorious as it is that the devil child often turns out well in after life and gets elected to the best country clubs, it should be recollected that there are two kinds of devil children. At least two!

The first kind is the mischievous sort, the impulsive dare-devil breed. The girl who is a tom-boy, the boy who is the leader of the gang, their devilry is pure joy of living, inquisitiveness and a determination to try anything once. Little worry need be wasted on them. They may spend a few nights in jail, they may lose a few redundant portions of their person, such as a toe or a tooth or a thumb, they may learn early to chew tobacco and inhale cigarette, but in the great majority of cases they learn something else—the lesson of the school of hard knocks. Occasionally they take the wrong turning and become permanently addicted to pool, politics or poetry, but even so they generally manage to take care of themselves. Alfred E. Smith, Shakespeare and Jack Dempsey were probably of this type in boyhood.

The other kind of devil child is the spoiled child. And this is a different thing altogether. The sulen disobedient little brat who has to be coaxed to do anything, who cries when it doesn't get what it wants, who cries when it does get what it wants, who stamps, writhes, squirms, protests, sobs and howls all the time. That type usually turns into something to frighten policemen. But it is not irreclaimable. The child is really smart. It has been badly handled and has found that only by temper can it get what it wants. But it isn't psychology it needs most. The old behind-the-bar-hair-brush treatment is still productive of benefit.

Frozen Pipes.

It is a wise thought to wrap the water pipes in the cellar with folded newspapers, with extra thickness where the pipes run close to the cellar wall. Then the cold weather may come without danger to the water pipes from freezing.

Smart London Girls Wearing Monocles

LONDON women have gone back to their wartime craze for wearing monocles.

The fashion, which was at its height when the masculine woman came into vogue, is now being adopted by brides, debutantes and even stenographers.

One of the season's smartest brides started the fad and shocked her family and bridegroom by appearing with a monocle swung on a black silk cord which she nervously fumbled during the ceremony.

Glycerine gives immediate relief from burns.

The Market's Guide

Choose ends that is well bleached with short white stalks and leaty; flow tips.

Honeycomb trips should be thick, quite fat and whitish in color. Avoid that yellow trips.

Calliflowers should be firm and pure white on top. When it gets that brown look it is not strictly fresh.

Avoid any vegetables that have a rusty look, such as the rusty spots on lettuce, the little brown spots on string beans and a brown appearance on the pods of peas and lima beans. They all spoil "not fresh."

Two Parents

EVERY child needs two parents. He needs them for his whole development and for his proper social adjustment to a world whose customs and values are still largely based on the institution of the family.
The child's emotional need for his parents has always been felt, but only recently have we begun to understand its bearings upon his development and his later happiness. Even if all other physical wants were taken care of, the child would still need the special quality of his mother's protecting and encouraging love.
For the little girl, the mother is furthermore an ideal toward which she herself would grow. The child whose mother is unsatisfactory in this respect frequently rebels against her own femininity and finds herself out of tune with the basic needs of her own emotional life.
The little boy needs his mother as the first object in the development of his ability to love. The quality of his love for his mother determines to a large extent how stable and satisfactory will be his own married life.
The little girl needs her father
